

What are Design Aspirations?

There are nine design aspirations that guide the ongoing evolution of ASU as a New American University. These institutional objectives are integrated in innovative ways throughout the university to achieve excellence, access, and impact. In order to collect feedback about how student academic programs relate to the ASU Design Aspirations, a survey has been included in the iPOS. Students will utilize the Design Aspirations tab in the iPOS to submit their chosen design aspiration(s), including a description for each. Responses will not impact student grades or their graduation.

Leverage Our Place ASU embraces its culture, socioeconomic and physical setting.	Value Entrepreneurship ASU uses its knowledge and encourages innovation.
Enable Student Success ASU is committed to the success of each unique student.	Be Socially Embedded ASU connects with communities through mutually beneficial partnerships.
Transform Society ASU catalyzes social change by being connected to social needs.	Conduct Use-Inspired Research ASU research has purpose and impact.
Fuse Intellectual Disciplines. ASU creates knowledge by transcending academic disciplines	Engage Globally ASU engages with people and issues locally, nationally and internationally.
	Practice Principled Innovation ASU places character and values at the center of decisions and actions.

Completing the Design Aspirations

Once students are in their graduating semester, they should complete the ASU Design Aspirations in their iPOS, as well as make any necessary course updates, if applicable. The Design Aspirations tab will not populate until the student's initial iPOS receives full approval.

1. Students click the checkboxes to select one or more design aspirations that most closely align with their graduate program. For each selection, the student enters a short description of how it applied to their studies.
